TO

WILLIAM TIDD,

OF THE INNER TEMPLE, ESQ.

SIR,

THE Notice which, in your excellent Treatiſe on the Law of Coſts, you were pleaſed to take of the Table of Coſts, when it lay under the Diſadvantage generally attendant on anonymous Publications, was to me equally flattering and unexpected.

Your Sanction has encouraged me to think a little favourably of my humble Endeavours to be uſeful. I have therefore beſtowed ſome Pains in rendering the Work more perfect; and I conceive that it would look like Affectation to decline any longer affixing my Name to a Performance which has been diſtinguiſhed by your Approbation.

Permit me now, SIR, to inſcribe to you this enlarged, and, I hope, improved Edition; and to aſſure you that I am happy to embrace the Opportunity it affords me of declaring the very high Reſpect which I, in common with all who have the Pleaſure of your Acquaintance, entertain for your profeſſional Character and private Worth.

I am,

SIR,

Your moſt obedient and

very humble Servant,

J. PALMER, Jun.

GRAY'S INN,
10th May 1796.

ADVERTISEMENT.

THE firſt Idea of this Compilation was conceived at a Time when the Editor was confined by a long Illneſs. He employed the leiſure Hours which his Indiſpoſition occaſioned, in ſelecting and arranging various Bills of Coſts, of which he poſſeſſed a conſiderable Number. This he did with a View rather to private Aſſiſtance, than to ſerve as the Ground-work of a Publication.—Having, however, obſerved the great Incorrectneſs and Want of Uniformity in the Mode of making out Attornies' Bills, it ſtruck him that a Work of this Sort, if made public, would be of ſome Utility, eſpecially to the younger and leſs experienced Part of the Profeſſion.

The quick Sale, not only of the Firſt Impreſſion, but of three others conſiderably enlarged, is a Proof that the Work was favourably received, and that the Compiler was not diſappointed in his Intention of being, in a ſmall Degree, ſerviceable to his profeſſional Brethren.

A new Edition having been for ſome Time wanted, it became neceſſary carefully to reviſe the Work, and to make ſeveral Additions, which the Editor truſts will be found uſeful. Such Inaccuracies as eſcaped his former Obſervation have been corrected; Attention has been paid to the Alterations in Practice; and in thoſe Charges which include Stamps, the new Duties have been added. This Addition ſuggeſted the Propriety of ſubjoining a Table of Stamps to the preſent Time, which has been executed with Care, and, it is hoped, with Accuracy.

Upon the Whole, the Editor flatters himſelf that the preſent Edition will merit the Continuation of that Patronage which the Work has already received from the Profeſſion.

N. B. The Editor requeſts it may be underſtood, that he means only to exhibit the Coſts as between Attorney and Client, and not as between Party and Party.
